PUCPR, the Pontifícia Universidade Católica do Paraná is located in the state of Paraná, in the southern region of Brazil.

PUCPR is present in four cities across the state of Paraná: Curitiba, Londrina, Maringá and Toledo. The main Campus is located in Curitiba, capital of the state, home of 1.8 million people and one of Brazil's most important economic, political, and cultural cities.

Curitiba is known worldwide as an innovative city, famous for its urban planning solutions in key services such as public transportation, and for its vast network of 25 urban parks that provide 51m² of green space per inhabitant. For such features, Curitiba has been considered one of the best-planned cities in the world and the most developed and organized capital city in Brazil.
